Dheepan is a Tamil freedom fighter, a Tiger.

In Sri Lanka, the Civil War is reaching its end, and defeat is near. Dheepan decides to flee, taking with him two strangers - a woman and a little girl - hoping that they will make it easier for him to claim asylum in Europe.

Arriving in Paris, the 'family' moves from one temporary home to another until Dheepan finds work as the caretaker of a run-down housing block in the suburbs. He works to build a new life and a real home for his 'wife' and his 'daughter', but the daily violence he confronts quickly reopens his war wounds, and Dheepan is forced to reconnect with his warrior's instincts to protect the people he hopes will become his true family.

Producers Michael Fitzgerald
(The Homesman, The Three
Burials of Melquiades Estrada,
The Pledge, Under The Volcano, Wise Blood), Ugo Tucci

Based on the novel by James Hamilton-Paterson

A romantic comedy of errors that plays on the distorted views and misperceptions men and women have of one another.

GERALD and MARTA, our mischievous, sharp-witted, mettlesome protagonists, happen to be renting adjacent villas in a small hillside town in Tuscany.

Through a series of hilarious misunderstandings involving a motley cast of criminals, rock stars, and film directors, he starts to think she's a sex-crazed peasant woman from Eastern Europe, while she's convinced he's just a pompous, nitwitted Englishman. But underneath their mutual insults and condescending attitudes is a genuine attraction. They are, as it turns out, just two shy hermits trying to flirt. And in a sweetly ironic twist, it is the same bitter and foul-tasting liquor they both wickedly use to repel each other that winds up bringing them together in the end.

A hilarious, wacky and wild British 'battle of the sexes' comedy.

One modern - young and in love, Zunaira and Mohsen are against all the same traditions. Under the Taliban, they've both lost their jobs as lawyer and university teacher and have difficulties to make ends meet. They have to sell their few possessions to buy food. Yet they're determined to maintain their modern values.

One day, a stoning. Then an act of humiliation. Then a fight... and life takes an irrevocable turn. When the lives of these diametrically opposite couples become intertwined, sacrifice becomes the price to pay for love.

As theatre and life begin to intertwine, the film builds to a nightmarish finale that only a filmmaker as perversely brilliant as Miike could have envisioned.
